Winter conditions that affect spring green up.

Each season has certain environmental stressors that arise and make it difficult to maintain quality turfgrass. One stressor is fungi that are active throughout the year. Different types of fungi are active based on whether it is hot or cold outside. In the winter fungi are different than the ones causing turf damage in the summer and there are two types that are confusingly called “snow molds”. Gray snow mold is one type of fungi that populates when there is snow cover and pink snow mold is the other fungi, which is more prevalent when there is no snow cover. In order to prevent these diseases, we apply a preventative fungicide control after the last mowing in November.

Drought conditions affecting grass are often thought about during the summer, but turf can also encounter a winter drought. This is called “winter desiccation” and occurs when there are dry windy conditions while the roots are frozen. Winds dry out the leaf blade and the roots cannot restore water to the plant because they are frozen. This can kill the grass plant and becomes noticeable in the spring when the grass begins to green up, except for the dead, brown, desiccated areas. To help prevent this we apply topdressing to the greens in early December which is like a blanket for the exposed grass leaves.

Root shearing is another type of damage that occurs on warm days when the upper leaf area is thawed, and the lower root area remains frozen. Force applied to the upper plant area by carts or foot traffic separates the roots from the leaf area of the plant and since roots supply life to the leaf it is very important that root shearing does not occur during this time of the year.

Crown hydration is another cause for winter turf loss and was experienced at many golf courses in this region during the spring of 2004. This usually takes place in early winter or late spring when the weather becomes warm and wet and then temperatures quickly shift to below freezing. This extreme variance in temperatures causes the recently hydrated crown of the plant to freeze in the very cold temperatures. The frozen water inside the crown then expands and ruptures the cell walls, which kills the plant. Raising the mowing height before winter has been the best preventative measure to combat this problem, in fact, in 2004 many greens in the region were damaged but very few collars were damaged, and this was attributed to the higher height of the plants.

Ice storms can also cause significant turf loss. This type of damage happens mostly in northern regions that have below freezing temperatures most of the winter. Damage is caused by the ice barrier not allowing any oxygen and gas exchange to the root system. However, some ice coverage can be beneficial for shorter periods of time because it protects the plant from desiccation.

Location of a particular golf course determines what type of winterkill is most likely to happen. In our region the biggest winter turfgrass killer is from crown hydration and snow mold.

December brings the holiday season and an official end to the 2021 golf season. Thank you to every member who I saw on the golf course or just met this year. Our golf rounds and tournament play saw records set this year that Seven Oaks has not seen recently. I have not been here a full two years yet (that will happen in June), but I feel as much a part of this club as anyone and the golf operations will be even bigger and better next year.

As for the month of December for golf, we are finally looking at cold temperatures that will keep the golf course closed more than not. In looking back at previous years and we did log a few days’ worth of rounds in December, but we will have to see the temperatures reach the low to mid 40s for most of the day in order to open.

Get your shopping done in the Golf Shop this year. Inventory has been a little hard to come by, however, we received some of our fall apparel shipments right after Thanksgiving, so we do have a fresh look to the shop along with our Black Friday deals that are running through the end of the year. Just a reminder that you must spend your yearly shop credit winnings by December 15th. Come by the shop and check out our accessories and non-golf items! You have a good chance of finding a gift for someone that doesn’t play golf. Thank you for a great season.

SEVEN OAKS COUNTRY CLUB
CHRIS JUBA DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS & MEMBERSHIP

Dear Seven Oaks Members,

December is here and the Club looks as festive as ever! Ellen and the staff did a wonderful job in decorating the club as they do every year. It always brings a smile to me when seeing the young children staring at the tree in awe and families getting pictures together.

We have had a positive year in 2021 with overall great weather and positive membership growth! Even though we had a waiting list for our Recreational Membership, we will be able to take more as the new pool will be able to accommodate more people. The pool project continues to progress as they started framing the buildings in November so they can continue working throughout the winter months. The finish date is projected for mid to late April assuming the weather is decent and all the materials can be delivered on time. It is a very exciting time to be a member as the 2022 pool season is going to be spectacular.

I want to thank all our members for a great 2021. I witnessed many great memories being made amongst family and friends and was able to share many laughs and good times with our members. Between the golf events, wine events, pool parties, busy Friday nights on the patio and many other things I can say that 2021 was a success!

I would like to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year! I look forward to a great 2022!

SEVEN OAKS COUNTRY CLUB
ELLEN POLICASTRO CATERING & EVENTS COORDINATOR

It's the most wonderful time of the year... that time between Thanksgiving and Christmas is such a busy time, but it's that time when we are thinking of family and friends. The Club will be all decorated for the holiday season and our annual events are scheduled for our members. There are two Sunday brunches-what a great way to spend some time with your family or friends with some amazing food! Don't forget to make a reservation for the Family Christmas Brunch with Santa on December 18. There will be music, Santa and each child will receive a gift, all beginning at 11 AM.

The Club is busy with events in December, but there are still a few rooms available. If you would like to have a luncheon or dinner or even a cocktail party for a special group of people, please give me a call and I can help you with the planning.

As we end 2021 I would like to take a moment to thank all of our members who have been such a pleasure to work with this year! I look forward to helping plan some new and special events for you in 2022. Thank you all!

Merry Christmas and best wishes for a very happy, healthy, and prosperous new year!
