December Course & Grounds Report

Winter conditions that affect spring green up.

Each season has certain environmental stressors that arise and make it difficult to maintain quality turfgrass. One stressor is fungi that are active throughout the year. Different types of fungi are active based on whether it is hot or cold outside. In the winter fungi are different than the ones causing turf damage in the summer and there are two types that are confusingly called “snow molds”. Gray snow mold is one type of fungi that populates when there is snow cover and pink snow mold is the other fungi, which is more prevalent when there is no snow cover. In order to prevent these diseases, we apply a preventative fungicide control after the last mowing in November.

Drought conditions affecting grass are often thought about during the summer, but turf can also encounter a winter drought. This is called “winter desiccation” and occurs when there are dry windy conditions while the roots are frozen. Winds dry out the leaf blade and the roots cannot restore water to the plant because they are frozen. This can kill the grass plant and becomes noticeable in the spring when the grass begins to green up, except for the dead, brown, desiccated areas. To help prevent this we apply topdressing to the greens in early December which is like a blanket for the exposed grass leaves.

Root shearing is another type of damage that occurs on warm days when the upper leaf area is thawed, and the lower root area remains frozen. Force applied to the upper plant area by carts or foot traffic separates the roots from the leaf area of the plant and since roots supply life to the leaf it is very important that root shearing does not occur during this time of the year.

Crown hydration is another cause for winter turf loss and was experienced at many golf courses in this region during the spring of 2004. This usually takes place in early winter or late spring when the weather becomes warm and wet and then temperatures quickly shift to below freezing. This extreme variance in temperatures causes the recently hydrated crown of the plant to freeze in the very cold temperatures. The frozen water inside the crown then expands and ruptures the cell walls, which kills the plant. Raising the mowing height before winter has been the best preventative measure to combat this problem, in fact, in 2004 many greens in the region were damaged but very few collars were damaged, and this was attributed to the higher height of the plants.

Ice storms can also cause significant turf loss. This type of damage happens mostly in northern regions that have below freezing temperatures most of the winter. Damage is caused by the ice barrier not allowing any oxygen and gas exchange to the root system. However, some ice coverage can be beneficial for shorter periods of time because it protects the plant from desiccation.

Location of a particular golf course determines what type of winterkill is most likely to happen. In our region the biggest winter turfgrass killer is from crown hydration and snow mold.

News from the Golf Shop

Even though we are looking super cold, we will still have the Golf Shop and golf course open the entire month of December. For the golf course, we will need a warm stretch of 40 degree weather for at least a few hours in order to open. The Driving Range will be completely closed until the Spring. The Golf Shop will be open Tuesday–Sunday this month from 10 AM–4 PM, with flexibility to open longer or shorter depending on the weather conditions.

Need some holiday shopping done? We have some great apparel and accessories for big gifts or stocking stuffers for all the golfers in your family. Remember, all golf members must spend their Golf Shop Credit by the end of this month, or it is wiped down to $0. We are currently running our Black Friday deals all the way until December 31st.

Thank you to all the golfers that came out and enjoyed the golf course this year. Thank you to all the members who played in Men’s Golf Committee tournaments this year. Our participation was fantastic and we look forward to getting bigger and better in the 2025 season. The Golf Shop will be back open the first week of March. Merry Christmas everyone!

SEVEN OAKS COUNTRY CLUB
CHRIS JUBA DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS & MEMBERSHIP

Dear Seven Oaks Members,

It is that time of year again when the club transformed from Thanksgiving to Christmas in a blink of an eye! At least to most of us it seemed like a blink of an eye, but I want to give a huge thank you to Ellen and her elves who once again made this Club look beautiful for the Christmas season. Most of our management team has pictures of us and our families in front of the lobby Christmas Tree and makes everything worth it when seeing families make the same memories as ours have during the holidays at Seven Oaks.

During this time of year I always reflect on the previous year and can say it has been a great year overall! We had many new members come on board, our first full season with the new pool facility, a record turn out in Junior Golf as well as a record low score in the Club Championship. I can think of many more positives from the year but have limited space! I also think about people we have lost and want to spread the word of their legacy at Seven Oaks. Remember Kim taught us about togetherness and Mike taught us about purpose. While it is so sad to ever lose anyone, I am a true believer that everything happens for a reason, and we will all prevail from whatever life throws at us.

Thank you to all our members for their support of this wonderful Club and a thank you on behalf of our whole management team for making our jobs as rewarding as they are. We all look forward to seeing everyone at the club this December and I look even more forward to 2025!

Merry Christmas to all!
